

AMENDMENTS TO THE SPECIFICATION

Please replace Paragraph [0019] with the following paragraph rewritten in amendment format:

[00019] It is generally also possible that, in accordance with a further advantageous embodiment, at least some or all bus protocol-specific engines are associated with a single bus interface and that a selection unit is provided for the selection of the bus protocol-specific engine to be used in each case. It is possible for both a manual selection of the bus protocol-specific engine to take place via the selection unit and for the selection unit of the bus protocol-specific engine to take place automatically, based on ~~independently of~~ the currently used bus protocol in each case. This embodiment is in particular sensible when different bus systems can be connected to the electronic apparatus in accordance with the invention via uniform physical interfaces (possibly using an adapter).